The University of Values

National University's Division of Extended Learning offers professional development and life enrichment workshops developed by FranklinCovey[®]!

These workshops offer personal, professional, and organizational development and give participants the opportunity to identify and apply their highest priorities. FranklinCovey has dedicated itself and its resources in understanding the challenge of greatness. These workshops apply to all levels of leadership including personal, interpersonal, managerial, and organizational. Participants can expect greater productivity, increased influence in relationships, stronger team unity, and ultimately to reach a complete life balance.

Courses are taught by FranklinCovey-certified instructors at National University locations. Courses can also be taught off-site for groups of 20 or more. Upon successful completion, participants will earn Continuing Education Units (CEUs) benchmarked to the International Association of Continuing Education and Training (IACET) standard.
